STREET CONTROVERSY is discussed by Granite City officials in the background while Street Superintendent Lionel Portell, at left, waits for Friday night's special meeting of the City Council to begin. Mayor Paul Schuler (back to camera) assailed slow action by the street department in removing tree limbs in the streets and in filling potholes, while Portell blamed a lack of equipment and manpower. The council agreed to spend up to $15,000 in motor fuel tax funds to bolster Portell's budget for equipment rental, manpower and overtime so the cleanup could proceed more quickly. Schuler is shown talking to Art Griffin, business agent for Laborers Local 397 (behind rail) and Alderman Everett Morlen, right.

TRAFFIC OBSTRUCTIONS, such as these tree limbs narrowing Wayne Avenue at Lynn Avenue, were the topic of a special meeting of the Granite City Council Friday night. The council decided to appropriate up to $15,000 in rental so the street department can speed up its removal of limbs and branches and can fill potholes caused by the winter weather. Friday night session' Schuler's comments follow:

"The safety of the people of Granite City is one of the most important factors we should be concerned about. We are involved with safety many times during, the day — when we get in our automobiles to and from work, or to shop, or to take our children to and from school, or when we are out walking, or when our children are walking to school and back home.

Superintendent of Streets Lionel Portell said today that the "reasons for a lack of acceleration in the filling of polholes and the removal of tree limbs left from recent damaging snow and ice storms are an inadequate amount of equipment and inadequate manpower. This statement is made in response special meeting of the Grantic City. Council to discuss the unblocking of streets.

"I made it clear to the council at the special meeting that the lack of acceleration in the filling of potholes and removing of tree limbs is due to a lack of equipment and manpower.

"I appreciate the council action to help at this time to solve an immediate problem, but am convinced that the overall problem cannot be solved by stopgap measures," Portell said.

Area weather outlook

Partly sunny this afternoon with high in 40s, winds 10-15 miles westerly. Clearing tonight with low in upper 20s. Sunny and warmer Tuesday, with high in low 50s. Warming trend Wednesday through Friday with lows in 40s and highs in 60s.

MADISON FIRE SCENE. Madison firemen, assisted by Venice, responded at 11 p.m. Saturday to a fire at the former Cloverleaf Tavern, 2000 Hildebrand St., Cloverleaf Addition, A fire department spokesman said arson is suspected and that Madison tiremen had been called to the same building for a fire three times in the last two months. Due to a lack of water in the area, prantison called for assistance from the Venice fire department. The vacant brick and frame building burned to the ground. No estimate of damage was made, and fire officials are unsure who owned the structure. They were at the scene until 1:40 a.m. Sunday.

"Penalties for failure to comply with the new regulations can be a civil penalty fine of up to $10,000 and a criminal penalty fine of up to $25,000 for wilful or repeated violations.

In 1978, the Emergency Response Unit of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency responded to a record number of reported spills in-volving hazardous materials and oil, according to ERU supervisor John Renkes.

Renkes noted that many of the spills were transportation-related.

He feels certain a great many more spills occur annually than are actually reported, and adds that the EPA will support legislation to require mandatory reporting of all such spills.

COLORFUL SCENE will be duplicated indoors Tuesday, March 13, when Explorer Post 6 Indian dancers perform at half-time during the Officer Friendly benefit basketball game in Memorial Gymnasium on the Granite City High School South campus. Post 6, sponsored by Concordia Lutheran Church Laymen's League and specializing in Indian lore and dancing, is the oldest continuously operated Explorer post in the Cahokia Mound Council. All costumes and dances presented by the young people are derived from authentic historical material.

Erma authors letters, too

My day has been made.
My faith in those who are famous continues.
Today I received a letter from that lady of wit, my alltime favorite funny person.
Erma Bombeck.
I have been a loyal fan of Erma's for years. When she began appearing on television, I would risk being late for work to watch her. I braved every obstacle to get

A true classic

FREEBURG — A true classic.
Friday night, two old friends met here to decide the Freeburg Class A (small school) Regional basketball championship. Madison and Venice. The two names have been synonomous with basketball in Illinois for years. Each has won a Class A state championship. Venice in 1975 and Madison in 1977.

One thing was decided here Friday. Venice won't get a chance at its second state title, but Madison just might. The Trojans from Madison jumped out to an early first half lead, but had to hold on for their lives as Venice's Red Devils cut the gap to a mere two points late in the game. But crucial free throwing by Madison helped pull the victory out of the fire.

Venice came a long way this season. From an 0-6 start to a final record of 18-10. But Madison can now go on further. The Trojans now own a 23-3 record and will meet St. Paul of Highland Tomorrow (Tuesday) night in the first round of the Vandalia Class A Sectional Tournament.

School Board now has public's attention, which can make whatever decision it reaches easier to implement

By studying whether to close the McKinley, Stallings and Washington elementary schools, Grantie City Community Unit School District Nine officials have gotten the full attention of the public regarding the worsening financial condition.

Many citizens aren't happy to be confronted with a problem of such dimensions as a $1,900,000 operating cost deficit, but it is a fact that the financial imbalance has been discussed frequently since 1975, and that closing of Stallings School was discussed seriously a year ago. Greatest citizen unhappiness in recent days is in the areas served by the three schools, which have provided important services in eighborhoods since McKinley and Stallings.

Also in an unhappy, uncomfortable position is the School Board which uncertain how many will show up at the board's decision-making meeting Iomorrow night.

School officials were praised lavishly last week for operating quality sechoels that parents badly want to see kept in operation. At the same time, the officials were accused of a wide range of errors of commission and omission for allowing the financial squeeze to occur.

If there is waste, it does not seem to involve impropriety. Massive, detailed work is carried out to assure that bidding and purchasing achieve low costs and desired specifications.

Excessive employees exist, in the opinion of many residents, but 62 jobs have been abolished in the past five years. And the school closing plan is directly tied to, hopes of ending a significant number of additional positions.

While hindsight might have led to construction a case also can be made for periodic replacement of schools so that their average and actual age does not become too great in terms of maintenance costs and general deterioration.

One of the most serious charges voiced at the public hearing was that politics is practiced in the schools. Evidence includes the fact that for much of the hiring, multiple recommendations are required from the administration, with board members making the final choice. Some board members feel that to leave employee selections totally to the administrative staff would inject the staff itself into politics, with awesome economic and patronage power.

As to the enrollment pattern—attributed to a lower birthrate here and elsewhere, and to home building restraints imposed by zoning officials and lack of sanitary sewers—it was unexpectedly severe but has hit many other communities along with Unit School District Nine.

With the completion of current With the completion of current Quad-City sewer installation work, some uprum in school population may be felt but perhaps not substantially until the mid-1980s.

The state also mandates expanded school services, such as in the field of special education, and this fact greatly reduces the net gain in past and scheduled state aid increases applicable to general operating costs.

School costs are big partly because the services rendered are so closely related to a large number of employees, unlike some governmental bodies whose services are geared more to buildings or equipment. In District Nine, teacher pay and benefits are estimated to utilize 72 percent of the budget total. PREGNANCY BENEFITS SUSTAINED BY COURT Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott, on behalf of the Fair Employment Practices Commission, won a court victory last week commission, which was to be supplyed to the disability and hospital benefits as are payable for other disabilities. The ruling, which states that exclusion or limitation of pregnancy-related disabilities from employment benefits is discrimination on the basis discrimination on the basis discrimination on the basis of sex, was entered in the case of Illinois Consolidated Telephone Co. vs. Illinois FEFC.

The wise ones speak and the young listen

For generations, the very old have passed their knowledge of life on to the young. Grandchildren are the best listeners. They are interested in what went before. It is sad whenever a senior citizen has no one to tell his stories to. There is a group of young people seeking out lonely elderly people in this community in order to learn from them.

Part of the youth group at Pontoon Beach Church of Christ and, for the last several months they have been spending their Wednesday evenings at The Colonnades nursing home.

The kids are matched to their "adopted grandparents" by their common interests, according to Mrs. McGee.

"John Robertson, who is 18, and Pat Hughes, a resident of from Glen Carbon and they have a lot of interesting stories to tell each other. Mr. Hughes begins to miss John as soon as the visit is over."

One lady moved to another nursing home. Her "adopted granddaughter" was devoted enough to the elderly lady to begin visiting her at the new place, which is out-of-town.

The young people have braved the snow, had roads and worse to get to the wans that carry them to Colonnades."

The youth group made up special little packages for the senior citizens at Christmas. Special things are done on But what started out as a visiting program has turned, into a learning experience for everyape involved. The process has evolved rather quickly and even some of the home's more reluctant residents are beginning to ask for the visits.

Some that they are asking goes beyond being coney. All of the elderly people at the home have great stories to tell and the wisdom of their years to pass on. The young people of the church group want to learn of the past as seen by one who has been there. The senior citizens are also interested in the kids. They want to know about school and all of the activities of the years to have a supplied to show the changes.

of their own youth, and they are currous about those-changes. So the adopt-a-grandparent program is actually good for both age groups. Each has something to learn from the other and that is why Mrs. McGee believes' that the idea-will do well for a long time to come. "The feeling is here," she said. "The kids keep coming back and the residents keep looking forward to their
